Wiesbaden / Weifang, 31 August 2012 – Weichai Power Co., Ltd. (“Weichai Power”) and KION Group GmbH (“KION”) announced today that Weichai Power is to become a further anchor investor and strategic partner of KION. Core of the strategic partnership is a close cooperation in the field of material handling and hydraulic drive technology. The agreement between Weichai Power, a leading Chinese automotive and equipment manufacturing group and part of the Shandong Heavy Industry Group, and KION, one of the world’s leading manufacturers of industrial trucks and a global leader in hydraulic technology, was signed today in Wiesbaden, Germany. The partnership is a landmark transaction as it is the largest Chinese direct investment in Germany to date.

Under the terms of the agreement, Weichai Power will invest a total of EUR 738 million: EUR 467 million to acquire a 25 percent stake in KION via a capital increase and EUR 271 million for a 70 percent majority stake in KION’s hydraulics business. KION will use the proceeds to further strengthen its capital structure. Affiliates of KKR and Goldman Sachs Capital Partners will retain their existing investment in KION and will not receive any proceeds from this transaction, and will continue their full support of KION. In the event of a potential future IPO of KION, Weichai Power has the option to increase its stake in KION to 30 percent. Furthermore, Weichai has the right to further increase its stake in KION’s hydraulics business.

The hydraulics business will be operated and managed as an independent company named Linde Hydraulics, with KION retaining a strategic stake in the company. Linde’s hydraulics products will continue to be branded under the Linde Hydraulics trademark.
Partnering with Weichai Power, Linde Hydraulics will gain improved scale and be even to adapt to a changing market environment and increasing competition.
With complementary products and technologies from Weichai Power, Linde Hydraulics will be in a position to gain scale and take full advantage of untapped market potential, particularly in the growing Asian region. The business plan for Linde Hydraulics includes relocating the existing hydraulics activities in Nilkheim, Aschaffenburg, to a new hydraulics plant nearby and increasing capacity at other hydraulics production sites.

Tan Xuguang, Chairman and CEO of Weichai Power, said, “This partnership is an important step in our five-year strategy to globalise and expand our business activities into new markets and products. With this partnership, we will leverage KION’s strong position and utilise growth opportunities for KION and Weichai Power to further enhance the competitive edge of both companies. KION has a long and successful history of operating in its markets, and we are strongly committed to its highly qualified and motivated employees and management. We will ensure stability of employment and the production sites, as well as continuity in the management of Linde Hydraulics.”

Gordon Riske, KION CEO, said, “This partnership represents a strong endorsement of the strength of KION’s global brand and our dedication to serving our customers.
Furthermore, the partnership with Weichai Power will cement our existing business relationship. Our products, regional market positions, and technologies complement each other perfectly. For KION, this strategic partnership is an important catalyst for strong future growth in Asia and China, in particular. This applies to both the industrial trucks and the hydraulics businesses, which will significantly benefit from Weichai Power’s expertise in the field of engines and drive technology.”

Johannes Huth, Member & Head of KKR Europe, and Alexander Dibelius, Head of Goldman Sachs Germany, Austria and Central and Eastern Europe, emphasized, “We welcome Weichai Power as an additional shareholder. Since we began our partnership with KION in 2006, we have worked with KION’s team to build a truly global company.
Today’s investment is a huge step forward in this endeavour as our partnership with Weichai Power provides an outstanding basis from which to further develop KION’s growth strategy.”

Weichai Power has complete confidence in KION and its management teams to lead and develop the business going forward. Under the agreement, Weichai Power has emphasized that it will honour all existing collective labor agreements, bargaining agreements and co-determination. This will ensure the long-term job security of all employees of Linde Hydraulics worldwide. In addition to the planned new production site in Aschaffenburg, Linde Hydraulics intends to expand its activities in China in order to better meet the growing demand from Chinese and Asian customers. All considerations regarding the future partnership in the hydraulics business will be discussed with KION employee representatives.

Weichai Power and KION have agreed to several areas of strategic cooperation, including supply of parts and components. Additionally, both companies intend to create mutual benefits through their respective sales and service networks and their production capacities to significantly boost the growth of Weichai Power and KION and their ability to enhance their competitiveness in their respective product segments and markets. For the material handling business sector, the hydraulics business will have a mutual long-term purchase and supply agreement with KION's Linde forklift truck business.

Weichai Power receives strong support from its parent company Shandong Heavy Industry Group, a China-based leading industrial manufacturer of commercial vehicles, construction machinery, power systems, auto parts and yachts.

The transaction is expected to close during the 4th quarter of 2012 and is subject to conditions, including certain consents and waiver from third parties, as well as customary regulatory approvals.
